Economic Development and Culture

Responsibilities: Business, Tourism and Culture

The following three-phased recovery plan is presented as a fluid document, with both short- and longer-term objectives and actions that will be added, changed and modified as recovery from the pandemic progresses, timelines change, and unforeseen, new issues arise.

In keeping with the Province's guidelines, response and recovery phases may occur in sequential order, concurrently or even regress as surges of the virus appear and public health measures change. All actions taken will reflect directives provided by the Province, including a tightening of certain actions or a progression to the following stage based on requirements of the Province and local Public Health.

Flexibility in the implementation of the plan will be critical. Staff will interview and survey representatives across all business sectors to identify emerging trends and issues so that appropriate initiatives, tools and technologies can be implemented to support business recovery efforts. The office will continue to explore best practices locally, nationally and abroad for innovative strategies that can further a robust business ecosystem in both the short and longer term. In recognition of the Town's Strategic Plan – Orangeville Forward and its goal of Economic Vitality, the Economic Development & Culture division will continually assess and respond to the immediate needs of the business community while working towards implementing recovery efforts that increase the Town's resiliency to future crises and overall economic health.

Considerations

Acknowledging that the Federal and Provincial governments have greater capacity, tools and programs to provide widespread assistance to the business community; the Town's role is to share information and provide assistance in accessing these resources.

Recognising that the Town is not allowed to provide direct financial assistance to businesses as a result of bonusing regulations within the Municipal Act, the Town can:

Advocate

Play both advocacy and support roles with the other levels of government

Support

Be as flexible as possible, within its jurisdiction, to support business recovery by making its services easy to access and understand, removing barriers

Stimulate

Stimulate local recovery by moving ahead with infrastructure projects

Plan

Initiate discussion on a new Community Improvement Plan that would support long-term goals, including initiatives for local businesses and job creation

Identify

Identify and share best practices relating to recovery

Encourage

Encourage the community to invest and shop locally

Outlook

The COVID-19 crisis has impacted all business sectors within the Town of Orangeville, although there has been wide variation in the severity of the impact and the specific challenges faced by each sector, business size and stage of business development. Particular focus will be required for small and medium sized ventures, operations under five years in operation, and specific sectors that include retail, food and beverage, tourism, arts and culture.
